Professionals: the heat treatment solution is for you!

Bed bugs are an absolute nightmare for hotel owners, companies, institutions, reception centres and medical and social institutions. Their presence can have significant repercussions not only on the health of staff and productivity, but also on the long-term confidence of users.

Heat treatment: the A+A Désinfection revolution

The heat treatment of bed bugs is now shaking things up after 2 years of research. What is its principle? In just a few hours, the rise in temperature of the ambient air and the furniture concerned exterminates bed bugs. This is a revolutionary process that is completely natural and harmless; no product or cleaning operations are required and a solution is provided within 48 hours.

Contact our teams now for a rapid response to your problem!

You must therefore act immediately!

In less than 48 hours, our experts provide a diagnosis following a sweep by detection dogs, mark out the treatment area and offer you their heat solution. As an extra benefit, we offer advice on the measures to take to ensure that the pests do not return.

An eco-responsible approach

Whether the place in question is your place of work, your home or your community: A+A Désinfection provides environmentally-friendly solutions that are harmless to people and pets. Laboratory tested and approved in Switzerland, the products used only cause minor air and water contamination and present a minimal health risk. In addition: as it specialises in the field of dog detection, A+A Désinfection favours this very accurate method which provides a targeted treatment.
